Inuit art

The Inuit are indigenous people who live in the Arctic region, an area that includes Alaska, Canada and Greenland. Artwork made by the Inuit includes pictures, carvings, sculptures and prints. Animals, cultural myths and legends are the main sources of inspiration.

Inuit carvings

The Inuit have a long tradition of being expert carvers. Carvings include tools, weapons and decorative items, such as animals and figurines. Common materials used in Inuit carving include bone, ivory, stone and wood. The carvings can be in a variety of sizes and colours.

Inuit printing

Printmaking is a more recent addition to Inuit art, starting in the late 1950s with the help of James Houston, a Canadian artist, designer and government administrator. At first, stonecuts were used to print images. Later, stencils were used.

Stencil technique

A stencil is a sheet of paper, card, plastic or metal into which shapes, patterns or pictures are cut. Paint or ink is applied over the cut out design to create an image on the surface below. Inuit artists use stencils to add detail to stonecut prints or to make several versions of their original drawings.

Significant artists

Today, Inuit artwork is extremely popular. It is displayed in art galleries and sold all over the world. Famous Inuit artists include Jessie Oonark, Karoo Ashevak, David Ruben Piqtoukun, Lucy Tasseor Tutsweetok and Pitseolak Ashoona.

The Enchanted Owl

In 1960, Inuit artist Kenojuak Ashevak made a print of an owl called The Enchanted Owl. It features a stylised owl with a spotted body and long, fanning feathers and was made using a stonecut on paper printing technique. The design became a commemorative stamp for Canada in 1970.
